

Abstract of the Disclosure

A communication system and method provides the ability to modify and transform media files remotely. The modification of a media file allows for media files, for example audio or video files, to be modified by adding effects such as echoes to preexisting audio or video files. The transformation of a media file allows for media files, for example MIDI files, to be transformed from music notation format into, for example, an audio file.

CONFIDENTIAL